

May 2003

Ref: 30502DE

Global Community News “Sharing the Collective Experience”

Walter Germany puts on a show at THE Show of all shows.

J. Walter GmbH (Germany) participated in this year's Hanover Trade Fair, the world's largest industrial trade show. Exhibitors from over 60 countries present their products and innovations during the six-day event held in April.

Gerd Koch, Horst Siegel, Martin Kleinegräber and Melanie Bartling were kept quite busy demonstrating our Surfox System, grinding and cutting wheels and our chemical products to intrigued visitors. Although the number of visitors to this show was lower than in previous years, all the qualified decision makers still seemed to be there and we were even able to close some sales immediately after the show.

Every year the organizers of the show set a different theme for the show. Next year's theme...Surface Technologies. You can bet that Walter will be there in force!

